PREFACE

In various parts of the country there are numerous organisations which are doing valuable work in the fields of education, science and culture. But generally most of them have been doing their work independently of one another. In fact, not much information about their activities is easily available. Hence there is an obvious need for a comprehensive survey in this direction. This Directory is the first attempt of its kind to present up to date information about the activities of the more important of such organisations in India.

For the compilation of this Directory the Bureau addressed more than 250 organisations along with a detailed questionnaire. From these approximately 200 answered the inquiry. Such of them as are found to be sufficiently important have been included in the Directory. It may not be out of place to mention here some of the difficulties the Bureau had to face in preparing the Directory. No comprehensive lists of organisations were readily available. All the sources from which information could be obtained were tapped and an appeal was made through the press and the Radio. The lists when ready were thoroughly examined. It is, however, quite likely that despite all effort and care some organisations may have been left out. If so, the Bureau will be only too glad to rectify such omissions as and when they are brought to its notice. A questionnaire is given at the end (Appendix) to elicit the required information. It is intended to keep the Directory up to date from year to year and this can only be done with the co-operation of all those who have so readily responded to our request.

The Bureau takes this occasion to offer its thanks to those who have helped in preparing the list and in supplying the information and literature.
